

The Queen's life story

---

Aldora Gladwine

"In worship, the queen captures your heart."

The Queens childhood

Youth

Aldora Gladwine (born April 21, 1976, Agorra, Ebrana) was the firstborn in a family of 5. Her mother, Juliette Gladwine and Joseph Lockheart were at the time also very open-minded because Aldora grew up in a polyandrous family. Her mother Juliette had one other partner.

SCHOOL CARRIER

---

Our Queen was homeschooled until the age of 14. Her mother saw to it that she learned languages, mathematics, and ethics and morals.

Aldora decided that she wanted to expand her knowledge and went to the Royal Middle school of Plymouth.

She was immediately one of the best of her class.

After completing her master's degree, she began volunteering in all kinds of charities.

Until today, she still tries to keep learning.

HOBBIES

---

Besides cricket, gardening and playing with her animals, Aldora loved to write poems and stories. She has her own book 'Love's poet'.

FAMILY

---

As the eldest of the family, it became her duty to take responsibilities.

Her sister Julia and brother Harry always saw her as their teacher in life.

After graduating university, she took her siblings to explore the world and help with her charity work.

The Queen and her family

FAMILY

---

The Queen herself has one son, Marcus, and one daughter, Emily. Both children go to the Royal school because the Queen finds education very important.

She wants her children to have equal rights and doesn't give her daughter more rights or duties than her son.

Since her mother's death, she decided to have both of her partners living inside the palace, to take care of their children when needed.

PARENTS

---

Aldora's mother, Juliette, passed away in 2006. Her father is still alive and still lives in the palace. He is treated as a guest and is still a very important part of the success of Ebrana.

He still honours his queen by gardening in the Royal greenhouses.

Family

Charity

EDUCATION

---

As education is very important for Aldora and her children, she wants every citizen of her country to have the same privilege of gaining knowledge.

She initiated the project 'School for all' where old schoolbooks are offered free of charge to everyone in need.

ANIMAL WELL-BEING

---

Animals are the world's most innocent creatures. She wants to make sure they don't suffer.

She opened animal cruelty-free slaughterhouses, many shelters and veterinary clinics all around the country.

GARDENING& FLOWERS

---

The Royal beehives were an initiative to increase the population of bees.

The gardens and beehives are surrounded by hand-picked flowers full of nectar that help the bees as much as possible.

She appointed several people to help with the maintenance of their gardens.

